“Feeling gratitude and not expressing it is like wrapping a present and not giving it.” - William Arthur Ward

Friends and Ministry Partners,

As our 2025 travel season has come to an end, my heart is overwhelmed with all that God did this year. It has truly been a year of fruitful ministry, personal growth, and abundant blessings. The Lord has proven Himself so faithful through every moment.

I am sure that each of you are also reflecting on what you're thankful for this week. It is my joy to serve and to represent your Kingdom investment. I pray you have a wonderful Thanksgiving with those you love. Below are a few things I'm most thankful for this year.

Record Impact

At MMO, we remind ourselves often that numbers do matter because each number represents a human being who was made in the image of God. I will send an update with final 2025 numbers next month, but for now I am thankful that our ministry touched more lives this year than it ever has before.

Friends and Family Joining Trips

It was a great joy to have around 30 people from various supporting churches join me on a clinic trip this year. Thank you to all who have come with me and to those who helped support those who came.

If you would be interested in joining an MMO clinic trip, please reach out to me so we can find a good option for you. I know you won't regret it!

Sustaining Support

Each year I'm amazed at how God supplies. This year was no exception. I began the year with specific goals in order to accomplish the ministry work that was ahead of me. I praise the Lord that for only the second time in five years of serving with MMO, we hit that goal! God used your faithful monthly giving. God used the one-time donations. God used new ministry partners. What a joy to watch God work.

My Family

I would regret writing a list of what I'm thankful for and not including my family. Truly, I would not be able to serve in this capacity if they were not understanding, resilient, and supportive. Cindy has worked so hard this year to make sure our family and our marriage remains strong while we serve. The kids have had impactful experiences serving alongside me this year, but they've also had to pick up a lot of responsibility while I've been gone.
